It is my pleasure to submit to you the Leatherby Libraries 08/09 Year in Review. Academic year 2008/2009 was a year of milestones, new initiatives, and increases in our collections and advances in our accessibility to the students, faculty, researchers, and community who have come to rely on the Leatherby Libraries as a cultural and intellectual heart of the university.

In the next 17 pages, you will read about the library’s highlights this year, new collections, statistics, special events, and the people who made it all happen. We added substantially to our print and electronic content; we taught more than 4,000 students about information literacy and how to utilize the library for academic success; we launched the Graphic Novel Collection, the Map and Geographic Information Center, and the Paolo Freire and Mendez v. Westminster Archives; we recorded more than 750,000 entries into the building; remained open almost 4,500 hours; answered 10,000 reference transactions, and hosted 41 displays, exhibitions, and academic programs.

Our donors remain generous and committed, giving us 15,000 books and more than $33,000 in cash gifts and pledges. We increased the library’s art collections by more than 125 items, including a major collection of medieval monumental brass rubbings. We are proud to announce the creation of the Leatherby Libraries Board this past year to assist with fund-raising opportunities for the Leatherby Libraries.

The success of the Leatherby Libraries lies with the support of Chapman University, notably President James L. Doti, Chancellor Daniele Struppa, faculty who support the library, and the dedicated librarians and library staff who work here, and I am pleased to acknowledge their service, their commitment, and their talent.

I hope you enjoy reading this annual report.

Sincerely,

Charlene Baldwin

MAGIC COMES TO THE LEATHERBY LIBRARIES

Fulfilling our goal to support global education, the Leatherby Libraries is proud to announce the creation of MAGIC—The Map and Geographic Information Center. In its infancy now, this center will be fully functional by spring semester 2010. Contact librarians Douglas Dechow (GIS) and Randolph Boyd (print resources) for more information.

Scott Stone

Music Librarian Scott Stone holds a master’s of music performance and master’s of library science from the University of North Texas along with a B.Mus.(music theory) and B.Mus. (music performance) from the University of Georgia. Before coming to Chapman, Scott worked at the University of North Texas Music Library, one of the largest in the country. Over the years he has managed to work his way around the country: he was born in Vermont, raised in Maryland, received his undergraduate schooling in Georgia, graduate work in Texas, and finally settled here in California. When not diligently working, Scott enjoys biking, reading, competitive badminton, and performing music. His instrument is the euphonium.

Maria Yanez

Maria Yanez, interlibrary loan assistant, is currently pursuing a master’s in library and information science and will complete this by December 2009. Maria received a Bachelor’s degree from Cal State Fullerton in studio art and has worked in libraries for eight years. Prior to serving the Chapman community, she worked at Anaheim Public Library and the Cal State Fullerton Pollak Library. Maria hopes to pursue a career in archives at a museum library and is currently volunteering as a cataloger for the Historical Society of Long Beach. Her hobbies include playing guitar, painting, deejaying, and collecting ’80s video games.

A Gathering Place. A Marketplace of Ideas. A Crossroads of Information. The Leatherby Libraries is committed to its mission of creating an environment that places it as an intellectual and cultural heart of the university. We do this with art exhibitions, curriculum-related special events and displays, and programming that brings together students, faculty, and the community with artists, writers, and thinkers. The library developed and hosted more than 40 displays, exhibitions, and programs last year.
Milton and Rose Friedman Reading Room

Nobel Laureate Milton Friedman and his wife, Rose, generously donated their personal library of more than 4,000 books and bound volumes and other materials in 2003, 2005, and 2007. Now housed in the Milton and Rose Friedman Reading Room, this collection includes books, papers, awards, and other items. The new space was dedicated on Nov. 18, 2008 during a ceremony attended by Rose Friedman and other family members. The reading room was made possible by a gift of Pat and Dick Wallace in honor of R.C. Hoiles. Pictured from left: Pat Wallace, David Friedman, Dick Wallace, Rose Friedman, Jan Martel, and Chapman President James L. Doti.

Vernon L. Smith, Ph.D. Reading Alcove, in Honor of R.C. Hoiles

2002 Nobel Prize winner in economics Vernon L. Smith, Ph.D., who holds the Argyros Chair in Finance and Economics at Chapman, has generously donated his Nobel medal and associated memorabilia to Chapman. The new Vernon L. Smith, Ph.D. Reading Alcove, in Honor of R.C. Hoiles displays the Nobel medal in perpetuity. This new space was dedicated on May 22, 2009 at a ceremony that featured Professor Smith and his wife Candace, Chapman President James L. Doti, Chapman Chancellor Daniele Struppa, and Professor Smith’s colleagues from Chapman’s Economic Science Institute. Pictured are Trustee George L. Argyros ’59 and his wife Julianne Argyros, Vernon and Candace Smith, and Trustee Doy Henley.

In addition to the medal, Professor Smith has donated the hand-painted Nobel certificate traditionally given to laureates at the ceremony in Stockholm, as well as posters and awards relating to his many years of teaching and lecturing, and a personal collection of books.
Named by Henry and Susan Samueli in honor of Henry Samueli’s parents, both of whom were Holocaust survivors, this library offers a dedicated space on the Chapman University campus for the study of the Holocaust and its significance today.
